Tuskegee Airmen

The Tuskegee Airmen were dedicated, determined young men who enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Corps to become America's first black military airmen. They accepted the challenge during a time when segregation was the norm and many people thought that blacks lacked intelligence, skill, courage and patriotism. Overcoming prejudice and discrimination, this elite group played an integral role in the Allied victory in World War II and directly contributed to the eventual integration of the U.S. armed services. Governor Pat Quinn, Illinois Transportation Secretary Ann L. Schneider and other state and local officials recently dedicated the Tuskegee Airmen Memorial Trail to celebrate the Airmen's commitment to our country. Pursuant to House Resolution 28, sponsored by Rep. Marlow Colvin, the Tuskegee Airmen Memorial Trail is the stretch of Interstate 57 between Exit 339 at Sauk Trail Road and Exit 358 at Wentworth Avenue in Chicago. "It is important to recognize our men and women who sacrificed so much to defend our rights," said Governor Quinn. "Their service to our country will always be remembered."

The time is always right to do what is right.
